

Food Distribution Program on Indian Reservations

Zero Income Form

In order to determine your eligibility for the Food Distribution Program, you need to provide proof of income for the past 30 days prior to the date of your application. If you have had zero income for the past 30 days or are currently claiming zero income, please answer the following questions.

1. What was the total income for your household for the past 30 days?

2. How does your household pay your utility bills?

3. How does your household pay for your housing?

4. How does your household pay for personal items or clothing?

5. Have you or any members of your household applied for any benefits/programs? (such as SSI, Social Security, TANF, Unemployment, Public/General Assistance)

I hereby certify that the information that I have provided is accurate and represents the total income for ALL members of my household. I understand that I must report any changes in household size, income and/or resources within 10 days of the date the change becomes known. I understand that if I fail to report a change and, as a result, receive USDA food package that my household was not entitled to, a monetary claim may be filed against my household.

REGARDING FAIR HEARINGS

Applicants for USDA Food Distribution Benefits are entitled to have any action taken by the certifying agent reviewed for accuracy and compliance with federal policies and the procedures used to operate the program. There are two types of review process, and the type of review used to resolve a disagreement is an option of the applicant.

Agency Conference: This is generally the quickest way to resolve a disagreement regarding your eligibility or the amount of benefits you receive. The Agency Conference is simply a discussion between the certifying agent and yourself regarding an action taken by the agency that affects your eligibility for the program

Fair Hearing: A Fair Hearing is a formal review of the basis of your complaint by a disinterested third party knowledgeable regarding the federal policies and the procedure used to conduct the Food Distribution Program. The fair hearing examiner is a person who was not a party to the original decision that you are in disagreement with. The fair hearing will be attended by you, the certifying agent and anyone you want to assist or represent you when you explain the reasons you feel participation in the program was not handled properly.

You can request a Fair Hearing or Agency Conference by contacting the program certification office in your area. You can do this by personal visit, telephone, or complete the request at the bottom of this page and mail to the address listed. You have a maximum of 90 days from the date of notice of adverse action to request a hearing. You may request that your program benefits continue at the level authorized previous to receiving the notice of adverse action, but you must do so within 10 days of receiving the notice. If the hearing decision upholds the agency's action, however the over-issued benefits may be held against you, and you will owe the government for the USDA Foods you receive.
